The screenshot shows the SMDEX trading platform. At the top, the header includes the SMDEX logo, navigation links (Market, Exchange, More, P2P), and a user profile dropdown for 'sar*@gles.com'. The main content area is divided into two panels. The left panel, titled 'Trade Completed', shows a transaction where 'You sold 0.00060859 ETH'. It lists the trade details: 'saravana' (SOLD) and 'balakrishnan' (PURCHASED), both for 200 INR 0.00060859 ETH. Below this, there is a 'Dispute' button and a 'Trade Cancel' button. The right panel shows the chat interface for 'Balakrishnan', who is 'online'. The chat history includes a message from the buyer: 'testing 300 worth BTC'. Below this, there are two system messages: one stating 'The buyer will have 30 minutes to make their payment and click on the PAID button before the trade expires.' and another stating 'The vendor is now verifying your payment. If you have not paid then you may be reported for coin locking and your account suspended. Once the vendor confirms payment bitcoins will be released escrow to your wallet.' The chat input field at the bottom is empty.

6. Check the feedback text

The screenshot shows the SMDEX feedback section. At the top, there is a 'Terms & Conditions' section with the text 'testing 300 worth BTC'. Below this, there is an 'Additional Information' section with the text '300 INR = 0.0000811388510658632'. The main content area is titled 'Feedbacks' and features a green card with a red border. The card contains the text 'Good and trusted seller' and a small red box with the text 'Good and trusted seller'. The footer of the page includes the SMDEX logo, a 'Resource' section with links (Fee, Public API, Referral), a 'Company' section with links (About, Contact Us, Whitepaper), and a 'Legal' section with links (Terms & Conditions, Privacy policy, Anti-Money Laundering).
